Both Messrs. Overbey and Haskins are stsying here. This is Mr. Overbey's home, and since the failure of the bank Mr. Haskins has been living with his mother in this place. Interest in this case is unabated throughout the county, and even now, although the failure of the bank cocurred over two months ago, it is the chief topic of conversation. In many cases the failure of the bank has caused disastrous hardships upon depositors, and a few of them are wrought up to a high pitch, which time does not seem to soften.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., June 18.—
The North Carolina Medical Society, which has been in session here since
Tuesday, adjourned this afternoon.
During the morning session charges were preferred against the Charlotte Medical Journal, the organ of the society, alleging the publication of unethical advertising in selling space to the Biggs Sanatorium, at Greensboro.
The charges were brought by the Gullford Medical Society in the following resolution:

The charges were brought by the Gullford Medical Society in the following resolution:

"That the Guilford Medical Society ofer emphatic protest against the publication of this advertisement, inserted by a man whom we have endeavored to suppress by law; that we regard it as an insuit to all self-respecting physicians, and recommend that all patronage be witdrawn until all unethical advertisements are excluded."

The charges produced spirited discussion. Dr. E.al, of Greensboro, said: "We have prosecuted Biggs once for practicing medicine in the State without a license. This advertisement should not be published, when Mr. Biggs says that people have been drugged to death, and that if they will let him get the drugs out of them that other physicians have administered, they will get well."

The charges were finally referred to the board of councilors, who will cit the editor of the Medical Journal to trial.

The society adopted a resolution that any member convicted of abusing the privilege of writing whiskey prescriptions after the prohibition law goes into effect in North Carolina shall have his license as a physician revoked.

Interest in Schools.

Thomas C. Walker, who was graduated from Hampton in 1852, spoke on "How to Arouse the Interest of the Cemmunity in Schools." He told of his work in thirty-five counties of Virginia, where he induced his people to take an increased interest in the lengthening of the school ceuipment, and the elevation of the teachers' standard, and where he secured the co-operation of the best white people, notably the county and local school officers, including the superintendents, the chairmen and clerks of school boards, and the people of means and personal influence.

Professor Monroe N. Work, who is connected with the department of pedagogy at the Georgia Industrial State College, Savannah, spoke on "How to Fit the School to the Needs of the Community," and emphasized the thought that there is a prossing demand for thoroughly competent teachers in the negro rural schools—men and women who can and will do a great deal of general work which is not excludent of the academic department at Hampton Institute, described an excellent type of Indian day school which has been established by Mr. and Mrs. Three Stars off on a prarie trail, miles from the nearest railrond. At the Three Stars's school the children gather any time after the sun has come up and remain for a number of hours to learn how to read, write clipher, cook, sew, farm, take care of the body and cultivate the religious nature.
